

The Rise of Tom Hadley

By C. F. Whitman

CHAPTER XI

Various Happenings

Mr. Benton, with Charlie, called at the office late in the afternoon on the day of the trial to take Tom home with them to supper. The magnate remarked: "Come, my boy, let us go home to the women folks, where we can enjoy the day's doings." Of course Tom went. There was no excuse for him to do otherwise. To his wife at the supper table, Mr. Benton said: "I was never more pleased, Mary, than to hear our young man here, on his cross examination, get the better of Pincham, the tramp's attorney. I didn't have to suggest anything to him or to appeal to the court to protect him from answering improper questions. He knew just what to say, and to turn the laugh on the lawyer. It would have done you good to have heard of Tom had dropped his head in confusion as Mr. Benton was saying this. Nothing it, Charlie slapped him on the back exclaiming: 'Hold up your head old man. It's nothing to be ashamed of, but something to be proud of, to beat old Pinch at his witness grilling. People are saying that he never got his match before.' Tom took a side-glance at Maude, who was showing her keen interest and satisfaction in what was being said. Charlie rattled on: 'Some of old Pinch's rotters thought at first that he would browbeat the court and they began to whomp it up in great shape, but Justice Jones Randolph put a kibosh on their demonstrations by having them teased out of the court room by Harry Titus. It was great to see them squealed and I wanted to applaud and cheer that wouldn't have answered.' 'If Tom cared he could go into Cy's office,' remarked Mr. Benton.

and concluded with: "You are to be congratulated, Mr. Hadley, in having such a son, I have had an opportunity to learn something of character, and have no doubt as he is so smart and resourceful that he will rise to eminence if he has an opportunity to do so, and I shall see to it that he has the chance, if he stays here, which he seems inclined to do." Charlie called on Betty the same evening of the trial. As he saluted her, he said: "You see, Betty, I'm as good as my word. I've come to see you and not Tom this time." "Well, Charlie, you must be improving. How long will it last?" "Forever and a day, Betty." "Well that's remarkable, surely, for so sudden a change." "Charlie: 'Not so sudden, but try me, Betty.' "I'm inclined to give you the chance, but I may consider another, perhaps." "Who for heaven's sake?" "Betty: 'Well, I-I think I won't tell just now.' "Charlie: 'There's no one in it but me.' "Betty: 'Oh yes, there is. You are not the only pebble on the beach.' "Charlie: 'I am, in this case, Betty. I was fool enough to let you drift off alone for ever so long, but I see now what a mistake I made. I shall push aside everybody in the way.' "Betty: 'Now you can't do that so easily. I'm not going to be neglected for years and have even 'Handsome Charlie' come in and take possession, just as if he had always been constant and true.' "Charlie: 'Don't call me that, Betty. I'm perfectly tired of it. If I have neglected you, I haven't had anything to do with any other girl. Ask Maude if I have.' "Betty: 'Well, Charlie, when I do ask her or any one else, you can catch a white lightning, but how am I to really spare her for the little time she is likely to be with the best society in town,' she replied. "I don't know, Mrs. Morton, about its being a very little time with us. I intend to engross quite a lot of her time myself, if she permits it." "There will be a first time, Mrs. Morton. Hope it's just now." "Perhaps, Charlie, but the young man must be steadfast and true. Betty won't put with any dilly dallying. I know her too well for that." "She won't have to," replied Charlie. "And Miss Benton said as they started to go away: 'Our families, Mrs. Morton, will be very closely associated after this.' All of which highly delighted that excellent lady, who congratulated herself that her receiving Tom as a boarder, was quickly bearing good fruit. Betty was cordially greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Benton, who saw her the afternoon and evening was over, Charlie's marked preference for her, and were not displeased. They found her to be a very attractive and accomplished lady, with a mind of her own—quite piquant, but not offensively so. She took her place in the quartette with great success—Mr. Benton declaring that the alto part was the finishing touch to the singing. Mrs. Benton had to embrace and kiss Betty at parting and tell her how glad she was that they had found such a treasure. Charlie took Betty and Tom home. As he bade Betty good night he said: "Is it a care or a rebuff, Betty?" "You have behaved so well today that I won't disappoint—' Something just have prevented what she had started to say, but Charlie went home in raptures. To her mother, Betty said: "Oh mother, I've had just the best time imaginable. Mrs. Benton is one of the nicest ladies I know—next to you, mother. She hugged and kissed me as if she really liked me, and Mr. Benton is a fine and polished gentleman—not in the least stuck up or important appearing. I'm glad I went. Charlie is ready to tie himself to my apron strings." "Don't give in too quickly, dear. He'll like you all the better if you don't." "You needn't worry, mother, I'm going to be sure that he really means to be constant and true and not try to play fast and loose with me before I engage myself to him." (To be continued)

KEZAR FALLS

Camp Meeting Closed—Alexander-Mitchell Wedding—L. M. R. C. Notes.

Portland District camp meeting held at Old Orchard for nine days, closed last Sunday evening with a concert. Mrs. O. Banks and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Norton of Kezar Falls were there the last two days. At the concert, Saturday evening, Mr. Norton sang a solo, "The Vex of the Good Ship Love". Sunday afternoon, Miss Jessie Price and Mr. Norton sang the duet, "Tell Me More of Jesus". Mr. Norton later sang "The Bells of Conscience". The preacher Sunday morning was Bishop Hamilton. At different times he has preached in every county in the state. He is a fine looking gentleman, eighty-six years of age, has crossed the Atlantic eighteen times and some years ago, preached a beautiful sermon in the M. E. church, the occasion being the dedication of the edifice standing the effulgence of fresh paint and paper. Rev. Cymbrid Hughes was pastor here then, installed by Bishop Hamilton some years previous. The names of the artists on the program were well known and assurance of an enjoyable evening. It is safe to say that the quartette with great success—Mr. Benton declaring that the alto part was the finishing touch to the singing. Mrs. Benton had to embrace and kiss Betty at parting and tell her how glad she was that they had found such a treasure. Charlie took Betty and Tom home. As he bade Betty good night he said: "Is it a care or a rebuff, Betty?" ## We have joined with Firestone to not only meet but BEAT Mail Order and other Special Brand tires on Price-Quality-Service

Come in and see the facts for yourself

YOU no longer need to send for tires by mail, nor do you have to buy tires made by some unknown manufacturer. Firestone prices are now the lowest in tire history, but more important than that, Firestone quality has never been higher.

We've taken the mystery out of tire buying

Visit our store and we will show you the "inside facts" about tires. We have actually cut up new tires and have the cross sections for you to examine—you will easily see why Firestone quality is so outstanding.

Don't worry about punctures and blowouts

Punctures and blowouts are bothersome and most people fear them—but NOW, because of the patented Double Cord Breaker, Firestone has practically eliminated them. Come in and let us show you this feature that puts two extra plies of cord right under the tread where most road wear comes and where punctures and blowouts start.

Compare Prices and Specifications

Because Firestone Tires hold all world records on road and track for speed, safety and endurance, many people think they are high priced—but just check these low prices—then compare quality—you will be dollars and miles ahead.

INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST

Frank D. Marshall, President of the Maine Automobile Association, of the Maine Division of the American Automobile Association, is issuing a warning to the motorists of the state against the activities of salesmen who solicit membership in so-called auto protective organizations which are unable to fulfill the promises made by their representatives. Generalized such associations have conducted membership campaigns throughout the state and, after exhausting their funds in such efforts, have gone out of business.

Already in anticipation of the spring and summer motoring season, Maine auto owners have been approached by "high pressure" salesmen, who promise that, by joining the association, they will be able to obtain a membership fee, free towing anywhere in the United States and Canada, free service in automobile cases, free bail bonds in all pending automobile cases, a material saving on oil and repairs through liberal discounts guaranteed by the so-called Association.

After examining the records of the state and after exhausting their funds in such efforts, have gone out of business. Already in anticipation of the spring and summer motoring season, Maine auto owners have been approached by "high pressure" salesmen, who promise that, by joining the association, they will be able to obtain a membership fee, free towing anywhere in the United States and Canada, free service in automobile cases, free bail bonds in all pending automobile cases, a material saving on oil and repairs through liberal discounts guaranteed by the so-called Association.

At a conference of A. A. A. club executives of all New England states held last Friday in Worcester, Massachusetts, preliminary steps were taken toward the introduction of legislation in all Eastern states compelling automobile associations to handle the promised service the income responsibility before legally soliciting patronage.

The warning from Mr. Marshall and the Maine Automobile Association contains a suggestion that you investigate before you invest.

BRIDGTON ACADEMY

Bridgton Academy is to open a Junior School with the opening of school for the fall term in September. As far as known this is the only boarding school in the state which offers grade work in its curriculum. There have been several reports from parents, relative to work in the lower grades below the high school work and the academy feels as if there is a need for such a Junior School in this section of the state. This is particularly true since the opening of the new automobile and because of the easy accessibility of the Academy to Portland during the entire year.

Many more parents are sending their children away to boarding school much younger in order that they may become thoroughly trained in how to study and mingle with fellow students before entering high school. Many private schools out of the state have added a Junior School and they are proving most successful, as the students are trained in the proper method of study, and are able to get proper instruction without leaving school from the housework.

The seventh and eighth grades are to be added to the four year of high school work and the two years of post-graduate work now offered at the academy. These two lower grades will meet the needs of the younger boys and will assist them in getting a thorough training in how to study and an excellent foundation for the taking up of their academic work in the higher grades and thus be better prepared to carry on their work in college.

Sound training in the grammar school subjects will be given, with small classes and supervised study. As the school will be small, numbers individual development will be carefully supervised under a homelike atmosphere.

This Junior school will be housed as a separate unit and will have a housekeeper and a housemother in charge who will look after the welfare of the boys both out of school and during study hours at night. Their recreation will also be planned and good wholesome outdoor life will be featured for this younger group along with the new policy of the academy, which is being in "The Heart of the Summer Camp Region of America," will feature outdoor life and winter sports.

Miss Green to be Supervisor of Music

Miss Mona Green of Harrison has been elected as supervisor of music at Bridgton Academy. Miss Green is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green and she is a talented musician. She is a graduate of Bridgton Academy and of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, where she obtained a high rating as a student.

She will introduce the latest method in the teaching of music, that of the John W. William Method, which is meeting with much success in other schools. Individual lessons will be given as well as class lessons in harmony and theory. The course will include besides the piano, courses in softglo, musical history, theory, and musical appreciation.

While in the Conservatory Miss Green made remarkable progress under such teachers as Frederick S. Converse, well known composer and she studied theory under the famous Russian composer, Joseph Adamovitch, and the piano under Julius Chafetz.

Classes will also be conducted once a week in Harrison and in Waterford if the number are large enough, with the idea for this course. Pupils will be taken from the ages of five up. Miss Green has already organized a class for the summer months in Harrison, where there is a well known musical colony in the summer.

Individual lessons will be given as well as class lessons in harmony and theory. The course will include besides the piano, courses in softglo, musical history, theory, and musical appreciation.

While in the Conservatory Miss Green made remarkable progress under such teachers as Frederick S. Converse, well known composer and she studied theory under the famous Russian composer, Joseph Adamovitch, and the piano under Julius Chafetz.

Classes will also be conducted once a week in Harrison and in Waterford if the number are large enough, with the idea for this course. Pupils will be taken from the ages of five up. Miss Green has already organized a class for the summer months in Harrison, where there is a well known musical colony in the summer.

PARIS TOWN REPORTS AND LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Frank A. Briggs of South Paris, antiquarian and local historian, left with the Advertiser office, three old time town reports of Paris and a copy of the New York Herald dated April 15, 1865.

The newspaper is an extra four page edition issued at 8:10 a. m., giving the details of the assassination and death of Abraham Lincoln. The front page is laid out in "mourning" rules and carries other important news matter. Three pages of "who was" and "what was" medicine, complete the contents.

Paris town reports are of the years 1864, 1865, 1866, and 1873, in good state of preservation. W. A. Pridgin & Co. and the Oxford Democrat of Paris were the printers.

According to the records, total valuation of Paris in 1864 was $451,702; in 1865, $445,924; and in 1873, $661,599. Taxes increased during the period from $20 to $33 on a dollar. In the first report 516 polls were taxed at $2.00, 1873 while number of polls were 621 and taxed $3.00.

Without a bid for the liquor agency in 1864, no appointment was made by the state and growing rapidly. Only $2,220 was raised for schools and $4,000 for labor on roads. Inmates on the farm were reduced to six. The liquor agency netted a profit of $197.25 for the town. Indicated news was $10,690.75, due partly to var notes hanging since 1862. The last year bounty was paid this year. The report of the 12th Superior, supervisor of schools is a marvel of directness and square hitting. His arraignment of the citizens for the sad neglect of everything in particular is emphatic in a quotation from this report as follows: "Citizens, you schools, as a generally, are poor and mean; and they will continue so until you are willing to pay enough to secure the services of teachers who know their business, and until you empower competent and experienced persons to employ your teachers."

A notation with pencil beneath the report is as follows: "This gave so much offense that Swasey didn't get re-elected yesterday."
